A day with Woodlands School

by schools | Nursery and Early Years, Uncategorized | 0 comments

Rosewood is a school for pupils with profound and multiple learning difficulties and Kwame worked with our post 16 group.

The drumming workshops led by Kwame are very popular at Woodlands School where pupils and staff enthusiastically join in with the drumming, singing and dancing.

The hall is set up to impress all with colour and instruments displayed invitingly and the session tutors in bright, traditional clothing let pupils know that they are to experience something new.

Kwame brings a drum for everyone and plenty of percussion instruments to ensure that all can join in. Whilst he can engage 40+ pupils who have severe learning difficulties on his own (with school staff to facilitate), the day is enhanced when he brings a second performer such as Pape to lead the dancing and support the drumming.

We look forward to welcoming African Activities back to Woodlands next academic year.
